

For years, interest rates in Canada have been at record lows allowing for affordable borrowing through mortgages, car loans and lines of credit. Many Canadians took advantage of the "sale" on debt to spend more, but recent interest rate hikes were a wake-up call for those carrying large debt loads. Here's what they mean – and how to prepare for potential future rate increases.

Research conducted by Manulife Bank suggests that many Canadians aren't in a position to absorb a significant interest rate increase. Seven in 10 Canadian homeowners say they could not manage a 10 per cent rise in their mortgage payments. And nearly one in four haven't had enough money to pay bills at least once in the past 12 months.

Yet, Canadians have good intentions when it comes to debt – 64 per cent say that being debt-free is a top financial priority. And almost half of Canadians with debt succeeded in reducing their debt in the past year – though just 31 per cent met their debt reduction goals.

Some smart strategies can help make your household finances more resilient, so you're ready to adapt to potentially rising interest rates. First, it's important to understand how higher rates may affect you.

THE IMPACT OF HIGHER RATES ON DEBT

The recent rate increases were predicted to add about $50 to $150 more per month for a household with a $480,000 variable rate mortgage. The impact may, of course, be significantly higher or lower depending on the amount and structure of the debt. Canadians who have stretched to take on larger mortgages or increased their lines of credit may find that their household budgets have been greatly impacted by the interest rate increases.

actually be higher than current fixed rates. In that case, renewal could be an Lines of credit

Most lines of credit, including home equity lines of credit, have a variable rate. Often, the lenders only require borrowers to pay the interest that is due each month – but these interest payments won't make a dent in the principal. If the variable interest rate rises, payments will rise, too.

opportunity to reduce payments.

Student Loans

Student loans that have a variable rate will rise with increases in the key interest rate, making it more of a challenge to pay off. A student loan with a fixed rate won't rise; however, the risk for those who are about to start making payments, generally required six months after finishing school, and who may have to lock in at a higher fixed rate.

Car Loans

Car loans generally have fixed payments, but may come with either a variable or fixed rate. For variable rate car loan, payments will stay the same as the key interest rate rises, but the amortization period (the length of time before the loan is paid off) will stretch further into the future.

Credit cards

Most credit cards charge a fixed rate of interest, which won't change with the key interest rate. However, this may still be the most expensive loan for many Canadians. Those who carry a balance on their credit cards should consider paying of this type of debt first.

Run the numbers for your household

Earlier, we looked at the potential costs of recent interest rate increases. Now, let's look at the impact of a three per cent interest rate increase on a household with 4278,748 in mortgage debt, a $6,000 personal loan, a $10,000 car loan and a $65,500 credit card balance.

A variable rate $278,748 mortgage rising to 6.1 from 3/1 per cent would cost $457 more each month.

A variable rate $6,000 personal loan rising to 7.75 from 4.75 per cent would cost $9 more each month.

A fixed rate $10,000 car loan and fixed rate $6,500 credit card balance, while not affected by a rate increase, would require the same payments from a depleted household budget. In this scenario the additional monthly year. Without a plan of action, many Canadians would find it difficult to manage an extra expense of that size.

Rising interest rates can be a gift to savers. As the key interest rate rises, so may the rate paid on savings accounts and Guaranteed Investment Certificates (GICs). People who are keeping an emergency fund or other short-term cash in a savings account and those preparing to roll maturing GICs into new GICs may benefit from rising interest rates.

Make your household finances more salient

Overall, less debt means less vulnerability to interest rate increases. Consider strategies that can help you reduce what you owe by paying it down as fast as possible. One way is by consolidating higher-interest debts at a lower interest rate. Another is reducing expenses and putting that money towards debt repayment – trim or eliminate discretionary costs, or defer big expenses such as home renovation.

Extra money from reducing expenses could also be directed towards building an emergency fund that will be there to help manage additional annual costs associated with rising rates.

Seeing in black and white what debt is costing you today, and what it could cost you if rates rise in the future, is great motivation to eliminate it. Talk to your advisor about creating a customized plan to reduce your household's debt. Moving towards debt freedom will put you in a stronger financial position whether interest rates rise or not.

NEW MORTGAGE RULES FOR CANADIANS

As of January 1, 2018 all home buyers shopping for a new mortgage must undergo a "stress test" to ensure they will be able to pay the loan if interest rates rise. Borrowers will need to prove they can sustain payments on the higher of the Bank of Canada five-year benchmark rate or the mortgage contractual rate plus two per cent.

Home Owners get itchy to do some Home Renovations!

As in the past, property owners are still required to file the appropriate paper work before any work starts. Building permits are usually required for:

- |                                  |   |                           |
|----------------------------------|---|---------------------------|
| New building construction        | • | Garages and carports      |
| Decks                            | • | Mobile homes              |
| Addition to an existing building | • | Some types of renovations |
| Finishing a basement             | • | Fireplaces, wood stoves   |

When the 'use' of a building changes

Building permits are not usually required for:

- |   |   |                         |
|---|---|-------------------------|
| ✗ Fences                                    | ✗ | Driveways               |
| ✗ Painting, replacing flooring              | ✗ | Re-shingling, re-siding |
| ✗ Sheds measuring less than 100 square feet |   |                         |

If your project requires a Building Permit, you must file the necessary paperwork before beginning. If you're not sure if you need a Building Permit, please contact the Town Office at 645.2022

2018 was a busy year for the Rocanville Rec office. After finding our way around the office and learning how to put together the Community Calendar, we were able to take on a few new to us projects and some brand new to the community projects. At our recent AGM it was decided to share what services the Recreation office provides our community and the facilities.

Each year Rocanville receives a community grant from Saskatchewan Lotteries. Community members are encouraged to apply for projects offered within Rocanville. The Rec office collects these applications and with the assistance of the board, allocates how the money will be distributed. If you are looking for a grant to operate a facility, run a program, make improvements/upgrades to an existing facility etc., we can help you find these grants and assist in the writing and submission process. 😊

Did you know that the Rec office received a grant to purchase sports equipment for community members to use? We have a variety of equipment (basketballs, baseballs, bats, hockey nets and sticks, skipping ropes and hoola hoops plus more). Equipment is for anyone and everyone to use. All we ask is for it to be returned to the office when you are finished with it.

The Rec board/office organized a few fundraisers in 2018 and plan on continuing to raise money. Money generated from fundraisers will be used to put on events and support the facilities that fall under the Recreational umbrella.

Throughout 2018 we have organized a few events. Get out/Get Active Challenge, several Make and Take classes, a paint class, Babysitters course and some fun events for the youth to participate in during the summer months (Summer Program, Glow games at the rink, Floor hockey...) The office also helps to organize events like Community Registration Nights and the Terry Fox walk. If you are part of a group that is planning an event within our community, please let us know and we will do what we can to help promote your event.

This winter we took on the task of scheduling the rink kitchen and ice. The rink board decided this year to have rink families take a turn volunteering in the kitchen. The Rec office has worked with the rink and all the rink families to schedule kitchen workers, and ice times for these groups and other groups wishing to use the facility. The rink will be finishing up just in time for the pool to start their season. The Rec office is excited to continue to work alongside the pool in support of this season's activity.

The Rec office works with the Rocanville Economic Development Board to plan events like Oktoberfest, Jack-O-Lantern Boneyard, Late Night Shopping in December and Community Days. We also support our local businesses by promoting shop local.

If you require more information on any of the services the Rec office can provide for you, your group or facility you can contact us at 645-2164 or email rocanville@sasktel.net.

We look forward to continuing to work in the community supporting our facilities and businesses!

When you work at the pool you get to swim AND exercise for free!

You and your coworkers become a tight knit group, almost like a family!

Working at the pool looks great on resumes and university applications too! Since you have to take courses to work it shows you have ambition, desire to learn, and a willingness to do what it takes to become employed. You also gain valuable experience that you can not get anywhere else.

You start above minimum wage and the more courses you are willing to take the more money you earn!!

If you stick with it and take the National Life Saving course you receive a high school credit!!!

Here is how to do it

Age 13 take Bronze Medallion

Age 14 take Bronze Cross and Standard First Aid

You can now begin your employment

Age 16 take NLS and if you decide you want to teach lessons also take LSI

It is really that simple!!!

We have great instructors who are willing to put in time and help you succeed to reach your goal.

Rocanville Aquatic Center

The Rocanville Aquatic Board has received a partial grant to install a lift to make the pool more accessible for those with limited mobility. When the grant was applied for the amount was to cover approximately 70% of the installation cost, however with the new steel tariff in place the cost of the lift increased by 25% over original estimate. The estimated cost has increased to approximately $8000 – we received a grant of just over $2700 and funds from the Local legion of $1500 (Shortfall of approx. $3800-$4000). We also need to have a change table/bench built and a privacy curtain installed which was not covered by the grant. We are asking that any individual or business interested in donating to this cause please make cheques payable to: “Town of Rocanville” noting the donation is for the “lift project” at the pool. Any size donations gratefully accepted. Any donations received over and above the cost of this project will be set aside for future capital projects such as the pool liner and repairs to the mezzanine etc.

Thank you

Rocanville Aquatic Center Board
