#whyrocanville

Why Rocanville?... I'm sure many of you have asked yourself this question and the answer will be different for everyone. It can be that you like small town living, your job is here, your family lives here, and the list goes on and on.

To me, it is where I have grown up... I went to school here, made friends here, played sports here, got my first job here. Now that I have lived elsewhere for a short while this answer has changed a little. My friends are still here, my family is still here, but I have learned that the true answer to this question is that I love it here. I love the small town atmosphere; seeing people on the street and being greeted with a smile; being able to go into any one of our businesses and being asked "How are you today?" and actually meaning it.

Our little town has so many "big" things going for it. We have a grocery store, pharmacy, restaurants, massage center, post office, gift stores, to only mention a few. This is why REDO has adopted the phrase #whyrocanville. We are proud of our town and want to provide you with unlimited reasons as to why to choose Rocanville. I am sure you have seen this hashtag on Facebook, or Instagram.

Now we turn to you. We would love to hear the reason as to why you have chosen Rocanville. Send us an email to rocanville@sasktel.net or tag us in a post on Facebook or Instagram. Our favourite posts/quotes will be displaced in January's community calendar.

Parents can drop off their kids at the Hall and enjoy a night of kid free Late-Night Shopping while your littles create some fantastic gifts that they will be proud to present to their loved ones on Christmas morning! Email rocanville@sasktel.net to register.

Rocanville Economic Development Organization will be offering prizes for the best decorated home this holiday season! 1st place will receive a $100 gift card to one of Rocanville’s businesses. Judging will be done by the hayrack and dial-a-van riders. It will take place on Thursday, December 14th and the winners will be announced on Friday, December 15th.

Twinkle tours will be offered on Thursday, December 14th. The Dial-A-Van will be offered to the seniors free of charge and the Hayrack will also be running that evening. The Hayrack will be boarding at the Co-op Hardware Store and rides will be offered from 6-8pm.

Teaser about the February Break Camp..... Rocanville Recreation is planning on holding a mini February Break Camp! It will be a 3-day camp running from February 20th-23rd. Stay tuned for more details!

Interested in advertising on Social Media but finding it overwhelming? REDO has the solution for you!! REDO is now holding Social Media Workshops. Tracy Dupont has been sharing her knowledge and so far the workshops have been a big hit with local business owners! The next workshop will be held in early December. Stay tuned to the Rocanville Economic Development Facebook page for more details or join our REDO email list by email rocanville@sasktel.net.

Rocanville Recreation would like to send out a huge congratulations to our Rocanville School Senior Boys Volleyball team who won bronze at the 2A SHSAA Senior Boys Volleyball Championships hosted here in Rocanville on November 24th and 25th. Good work boys!

We no longer accept late community calendar ads. Please submit all calendar ads in a PDF format so that they can be added to the calendar easily and with the best quality. The deadline will be posted on the front page of the calendar. Please send any submissions to rocanville@sasktel.net and include a billing address.

Be sure to like us on Facebook to keep up with all of the events happening in the community! Also head on over to our town’s website, rocanville.ca, to keep up with upcoming events and facility schedules!

ON THE ROAD AGAIN

ARE YOU BETTER OFF BUYING OR LEASING?

If you're in the market for a new set of wheels, choosing the make and model may be the easy part. Deciding whether to buy or lease is typically the real challenge. Each has its advantages, but what's right for you depends entirely on your personal situation, finances and long-term plans.

When you purchase a car, you either pay for it in full or pay a portion of the price in the form of a down payment. A loan is arranged for the balance, and you make monthly payments until the loan is paid off. If you lease, rather than pay the full purchase price of the vehicle, you pay (or borrow) only the amount that the car will depreciate over the term of the lease. This smaller amount means the monthly payments for a lease are usually lower than for a purchase.

Lower payments can seem pretty compelling, but that's not the end of the story. When a lease term finishes, you don't have equity in the car. At that point, you have the option of buying the car for the residual amount or returning it and moving on to a new car and lease-and another term of monthly payments. In contrast, when you purchase a car, your monthly payments end when the loan is paid. You then own the car, free and clear, and you can drive it for the life of the vehicle or sell it.

Factors to consider A car lease has a fixed term, usually between two to four years, with your monthly costs calculated based on the term. Do you need the car for only a year or two? Can you foresee any reason you might not need the car before the lease term is up? If so, think again. Getting out of a lease early can incur costly penalties, so make sure you can maintain the payments for the entire term.

Finances

Making a larger down payment can lower the sales tax you pay on a lease, or significantly lower your monthly payments if you buy. If you want to lower your monthly payments to boost your cash flow, leasing might work best given that monthly payments are usually lower. Still, leasing means that you'll always have those monthly payments. If you purchase, you could have several years of vehicle use after the loan is paid off.

Kilometres

Lease terms often include mileage limits. Go over the maximum, and you might have to pay penalties. If you'll be driving a lot, try to negotiate a higher mileage limit before signing the lease. Failing that, you'll need to work out the cost of exceeding any limits and factor that in to your overall budget.

Wear and tear

A lease sets limits on how much wear and tear is acceptable and charges extra fees if the car has any damage. If you have kids or animals riding in the car regularly, it might be better to opt for purchasing. The excess wear and tear charges could eat in to money you've set aside for a down payment on your next car, resulting in higher monthly payments and a higher overall leasing cost.

Maintenance

With a lease, you get a new car every few years, which means fewer worries about its reliability. Maintenance is included in your warranty. If you won, you'll have to pay for ongoing maintenance and repairs as the car ages.

While buying a car is almost always cheaper in the long run, a lease might suit your personal situation better. If you do consider a lease, know what you're getting into. Review all the details in your lease agreement-including options and penalties that apply. Before you make a decision you can always call us to discuss and figure out the best option for you.
