We are very pleased to announce that we will be ordering a play structure to replace wooden play structure that is 30 plus years old and is beyond repair.

This will complete phase one of the playground renovation. Phase two will include painting the swing sets, fixing up the basketball courts and purchasing nets for the soccer fields.

This project has and will continue to be funded solely by donations and fundraising efforts.

The hometown advantage

Be a tourist in your own town and save big on your summer vacation.

What are you doing with your vacation time this summer? If a getaway isn't in the budget, a staycation can be a great way to get some much-needed downtime, without the hassle and the expense of a big trip. Try these tips for enjoying a truly eye-opening break in your own backyard.

Start with a plan

Figure out what you'd enjoy doing and how much it will cost, then plot it against the time off you have. Since there won't be big ticket expenses like airline tickets, you may discover you can take advantage of some activities that are normally out of your budget. Allow some flexibility in your schedule for spontaneity and for a few splurges, whether it's a day at the spa or a visit to a local theme park.

Finish your chores before you 'leave'

Tidy your home, buy groceries and put clean sheets on the bed. Then leave everything else until after your time off. Resist the temptation to do 'just one load' or reorganize the closet. You're on vacation. Give yourself permission to have fun.

Unplug from work

Turn on your out-of-office notification and don't check in while you're off. But feel free to share your adventures with your colleagues on social media—that can be a big part of the fun, and you may get additional ideas on things to do in your area.

Discover where you live.

Sometimes we can be unaware of opportunities for fun and exploration that are right under our noses. A little research can go a long way to discovering new restaurants, activities, events, or attractions that you didn't know about before.

Do more of what you love. Are there activities close to home that you enjoy, but don't have enough time for during your regular work week? Take advantage of your time off to have lunch with a friend, take an extra fitness class or just stroll through the neighborhood.

Take mini-trips. A night or two away from home can be as rejuvenating as a week away. Look for midweek stays when rates are lower and package deals are often available—for example, room plus breakfast and admission to an attraction.

A staycation is not only budget-conscious, but it can be a fun and relaxing way to escape the everyday grind—as long as you treat your time as a real holiday. So if you are looking to save some money and have time off coming your way, consider enjoying a vacation where you already are.
