Thank You to this wonderful, caring community for visits, gifts of food, cards, flowers, phone calls and kind expressions of sympathy after Norm's passing. There are so many to thank including the staff at the Southeast Integrated Care Centre for the excellent care and friendship extended to Norman while living there, Glenn Mikkelson for the beautifully crafted urn, Dawn Wilson for her caring service, Lana Weibe for lunch, the United Church choir, Chris Watson, Doug Outhwaite, Herb Park, Bob and Fran Fisher and many others for their acts of kindness. There are no words that seem adequate enough to say thank you to everyone.

Joan Stanhope

Thank You

The Museum would like to extend our thanks and appreciation to all the volunteers and the people of the Community that supported our annual Threshing Day. It is your support and participation that allows us to have a successful day. Special thanks to Donald Birbeck and Irene McLean who braved the weather and did a superb job of barbequing the beef.

We also want to thank "OUR ANGLES" Olivia Kelly, Jaelyn Ford and Jose Fafard, the summer students who went above and beyond and did an outstanding job at the Museum this summer. You accomplished so much and we wish each of you success in the coming year. The Museum would also like to thank REDO for the beautiful floral arrangement on the occasion of the Museum's 50th anniversary, thanks so much!

The 50/50 winner of $127.50 was Murray Reid.

thank you

RAC SWIM-A-THON

RAC is pleased to announce we will be holding a Swim-a-Thon on October 20th. This fundraiser has gone well in the past and this time we will be using the funds towards a large inflatable for the pool. Our last inflatable was a hit and offered something different for public swims and rentals. It drew in crowds and increased our revenue thus helping us keep afloat. There will be different age groups and younger children have the option to swim the width or use a lifejacket. You can give a flat rate donation or offer so much per lap completed. The pledge forms have been sent home with students so if you would like to help out please find a neighbourhood child to pledge. RAC thanks our community for their continued support.

Rocanville Curling Club

Due to finances, mechanical issues and a general lack of interest in curling in town, the Rocanville Curling Club will NOT be operating this season. The board will continue to fundraise in order to make repairs if and when there is enough people interested in curling regularly in Rocanville.

We will be having our Annual General Meeting on Wednesday, October 4, 2017. The board would welcome new members and any new ideas regarding the future of this facility. If you are interested in seeing curling continue in our community please plan to attend.

Thank you to all those that supported our Community Calendar Fundraiser this year. Calendars should arrive in early December.

2017 Terry Fox Run

The Terry Fox Run that was held on Sunday, September 17th and it was a huge success. 35 participants walked the beautifully groomed cross country ski trails and Dennis and Joan hosted a wiener roast for everyone to enjoy.

Benefits to an international investment passport

How investing globally can help reduce risk and increase investment opportunities

Investors tend to display what is known as 'home bias'- the tendency to stay focused on our own backyard investing at home can be especially attractive to Canadians because of our relatively strong and stable economy. But are domestic investments always the right choice? Before putting too many eggs in one basket, consider the risks and rewards of where you choose to invest.

Investing too heavily in the Canadian economy

The Canadian economy, while probably most familiar to us, is relatively homogeneous. Three sectors-financials, energy and materials- make up nearly 70 percent of the Canadian stock market. This much concentration can potentially pose risks.

Picture the three sectors as pillars. If most of our economy rests on just three pillars, and one weakens, the entire structure wobbles, as recently demonstrated by Canada's oil industry. The oil crisis in 2015 affected the entire Canadian economy, and the resulting downturn is far from over.

The second limitation is that our economy is comparatively small on the global scale. Canada represents a little more than three percent of the World's markets. Compare the 247 companies in the S&P/TSX Composite Index to the 2,470 in the MSCI All Country World Index. Going beyond our borders provides access to more top companies in all sectors.

What does this mean in practical terms? Say an innovation in the auto and truck manufacturing sector catches an investor's eye. The world's largest auto and a truck manufacturing companies are not in Canada, but in Japan and Germany. To gain exposure to the latest developments in this sector, the investor should look beyond Canada's borders.

The upside potential of going global

Investing across the world makes us less vulnerable to the ups and downs of one country's economy. According to Todd Millay in Forbes, 'owning both domestic and international stocks reduces the overall volatility of the portfolio since they do not move in lockstep. This diversification improves the risk-adjusted returns of a stock portfolio.

Emerging markets rapid rate of growth in another reason to invest abroad. Chinese and Indian economies are typically growing much faster than their North American Counterparts. Globalizing our portfolio gives us direct access to that growth. Investors with global exposure could be in a position to benefit from a wider range of potential upsides.

That's the basic premise behind diversification-it helps reduce risk and increase investment opportunities. Going back to the pillar analogy, a global portfolio rests on dozens of pillars across multiple industries and geographies. If one or two pillars fail, the portfolio is still well supported by many others.

How much to invest?

One theory of diversifying globally suggests investing domestically in proportion to your country's market capitalization versus the rest of the world. This means that Canadians should be investing just over three percent of our portfolios equity portion in Canadian companies and the rest globally. In more realistic terms, however, determining the right amount to allocate globally depends on an investor's time horizon, risk tolerance and financial goals.

Regardless of where and how much Canadians invest, an advisor can make investment recommendations based on our individual life goals and risk profiles. No matter where we invest, success takes patience. It's a long journey, but good guidance can help us stay on the right path.
