Covid-19 fraud

Protecting yourself and loved ones from fraud during these extraordinary times.

Times of crisis can bring out the best in people, unfortunately, it can also bring out the worst. According to the Canadian Anti-Fraud Centre, there have been a number of COVID-19 related scams aimed at the most vulnerable by taking advantage of fear and misinformation. It's important to keep yourself and your loved ones armed with the facts. |

Here are some COVID-19 related scams to watch out for:

- Emails, phone calls and text messages encouraging seniors to apply for COVID-related government benefits.
- A version of the CRA scam where fraudsters threaten that your provincial medical benefits have run out, or are running out, and you need to send money to reinstate them or to buy private medical insurance.
- A phone call from someone posing as a representative from a provincial or municipal health authority saying you have been found to either have COVID-19 or have been exposed to it. The caller then asks for your - credit card to pay for testing or results.

- A phone call from someone posing as a Canada Post or UPS representative saying you have a package (often international) that they've attempted to deliver but you need to pay duty or shipping first.
- Fake financial planners calling about opportunities to boost your investment portfolio after losses due to COVID-19.
- Fake bank messages asking for a social insurance number and banking information to set up direct deposit for government funds due to COVID-19.
- Websites asking for credit card donations to help purchase personal protective equipment for front line health care workers.
- A phone call from a fake community organization claiming they're trying to help socially isolated seniors. In some cases, these callers are trying to identify vulnerable seniors to gain access to their home to sell them things or steal their personal information.
- Romance scams through social media and online dating sites targeting seniors who may feel lonely due to isolation during the crisis.

There are also legitimate organizations reaching out to vulnerable seniors during the crisis. It's important to verify that the organization you're dealing with is legitimate before you take any other action. And never give out your financial information.

If you think you or a loved one may have fallen prey to a scam or want to learn more about how to protect against fraud visit Canadian Anti-Fraud Centre and speak to your advisor.

Rocanville Track Committee Report

The board would like to thank the residents of Rocanville and surrounding communities for their support during the fundraising activities for the proposed track at the school.

We were unable to fundraise enough money for a track, so we focused our energy on providing assistance to sports related themes for the students and community.

The money was raised after 4 marathons over the course of approximately 10 years. Money was given for the following purchases:

- Rolling bleachers for the stage in Rocanville School.
- Paved Basketball court with picnic tables. This court is located “behind” the school on the elementary side. It is for the community to use as well as the students.
- Donation to Rocanville Minor Ball.
- Upgrades to the running/standing long jumps.

We would like to thank the many people who volunteered countless hours to organize the marathons, the work on the basketball court and the running/standing long jump.
We would like to thank Dave Sandomirsky for his initial vision for the Rocanville track and his many hours of volunteering to forward his ideas. A big thank you to the businesses who donated to the marathons, and of course to all of you who participated in the marathons, as that was one of the most rewarding parts of the fundraising.

Is this something Rocanville needs?

Is there someone in the Community that would be willing to step up as an organizer?

Citizens on Patrol Program (C.O.P.P.)

The Citizens on Patrol Program is a community led, police supported Crime Prevention, Crime Reduction program in Saskatchewan.

This program has been in existence for decades. There has been a resurgence in interest in COPP as citizens want to contribute to the safety of their community.

All COPP volunteers patrol in pairs, with their personal vehicle or on foot, and are in direct contact with the RCMP detachment Members who are on duty. They are on the lookout for any suspicious or criminal activity, to record the activity and, where appropriate, to report it to the RCMP. The COPP is another set of eyes and ears for their community and their detachment, which assist in preventing and reducing crime.

Volunteers must be at least 18 years old, not have a criminal record or be involved in an active criminal investigation, and complete and pass a reliability security clearance.

This is a rewarding opportunity to contribute to safe communities, safe homes in your area.

If you are interested in starting a COPP program in your community, speak to your local detachment.

Qualifications

- Minimum 18 years of age
- In good health
- Must pass Police background check
- Good interpersonal skills and communications skills
- Possess positive attitude and ability to work in a team environment
- Ability to work responsibly with minimal supervision
- Ability to work in a professional manner
- Willing to participate in training sessions

Tasks and Responsibilities:

- Be the "Eyes and Ears" of the community
- Patrol the community by vehicle
- Identify suspicious or concerning behaviour and report to Police Liaison Officer
- Maintain awareness of community crime deterrence activities and initiatives
- Assist in increasing awareness and providing crime prevention information to local citizens, businesses, and community organizations
- Keep and maintain proper records
- Follow COP policies and procedures
- Maintain a positive and respectful presence in the community
- Treat all people with courtesy and respect
- Maintain confidentiality at all times

Recruitment, Meetings, and Patrols

Recruitment: Trade shows, other volunteer organizations, ads in local papers, door to door or word of mouth.

Meetings: Meetings should be run as per Roger's Rules of Order. Frequency of meetings are determined by the local group. It is recommended that groups have bylaws dealing with meeting attendance for board members and their AGM. Include training as part of your meeting. A liaison from the local RCMP detachment is part of the group and will attend meetings.

Patrol: Groups set up a patrol schedule depending on the size of the group and frequency/ number of hours the group wants their members to patrol. This can be determined in partnership with the Detachment.

COPP Application

To apply for membership in COPP, a Criminal Record Search Certificate, as well as a Vulnerable Sector Verification is required. Applicants must apply through their local COPP program coordinator. Once the individual is a member of the program, the checks must be re-done every two years. Until security clearance is approved, the individual will not be considered a member.
